A Little Pilot Coming
Women Always Pioneers
Last Man, but One
Dempsey to Fight Lions

—By Arthur Brisbane—

It was announced that Col. Lindbergh has reserved quarters for his wife at the Presbyterian Hospital, anticipating the arrival of a little pilot, flying by itself to this earth landing field.

That flight from nowhere to here is not extraordinary than Lindbergh's landing in Paris, but we take it for granted.

Many mothers will wonder at Mrs. Lindbergh flying in record breaking time across the continent, helping her husband to navigate at this time.

But courage destroys precedent. The mother of Bonaparte traveled from one battlefield to another and on a most important occasion returned home only a few minutes before the future Napoleon was born.

Oklahoma unveils a fine statue to the pioneer woman. Women have always been Earth's real pioneers, in ideas and in action.

Far back in the Stone Age they had produced all the grains we know by developing the seeds of wild plants.

They tamed female buffalo to provide milk for their children, planted gardens, changed human beings from a nomadic to a settled life.

They are pioneers of the frontiers and pioneers in ideas and in religion.

The influence of mothers on their sons in the last million years has changed men from prognathous cannibals to semi-civilized money-grubbers, a great improvement.

The "Last Man's Club" of Atwater, Minnesota, has buried its last but one member. Eighty-seven years old, Charles Lockwood accompanied to the grave the body of his friend, Peter Hall, who died at 91.

Now Lockwood is the last. When he goes the club will end.

Some day the last member of the human race club will die, with but one left to bury him. Or, perhaps, some friendly cataclysm will wipe out the earth and the last few thousands left on it.

That is a long way off, millions of millions of years away, according to scientists.

What will men achieve meanwhile?

Jack Dempsey, once heavyweight champion, will go to Africa to kill lions, elephants, giraffes, hippopotamuses and rhinoceroses.

On one of his "Safaris," (that's what the British call a hunting expedition), Mr. Dempsey thinks he may pick out a colored heavyweight.

Plenty of Zulus could fill Madison Square Garden.

The difficulty would be to make them endure prosperity and bootleg products after they got here.

If Mr. Dempsey should meet one of the big red-haired, eight-foot-tall gorillas of the gaboon country, he'd be pushed.

That kind of heavyweight could stroll along dragging Dempsey with one hand, Carnera with the other.

Prohibitionists will read with sorrow a statement by Mrs. Archibald Roosevelt, daughter-in-law of the late Theodore Roosevelt:

"I never saw a legislator refuse .. drink. No matter how they vote, they all drink. I know. I have seen plenty of drys who drink constantly.

"Drinking has increased in all classes of society since the Volstead law, and it is a different kind of drinking, too.

"When I was young I never saw young people take a drink. Now they all do."

The change of opinion among women as to prohibition is amazing.

Professor Shapley, director of the Harvard Observatory, hears from Canada that another planet, sailing around our sun, Eighty-unknown to us, has been discovered.

How many are there in our celestial family? How far out into space does the family reach?

Our ignorance proves the extreme youth of our "thinking race." Only a very young and

OHIO WARDEN IS FACED BY SUSPENSION

Attorney-General Acts When the Convicts Rage Against Thomas for Fire Blame

Columbus, O., April 24—A serious situation threatened in the Ohio penitentiary this afternoon as half of the 3,000 prisoners in two-cell blocks openly defied guards, but there was no actual violence except one fist fight.

Unruly convicts, incensed by the death of 318 prisoners who were burned and suffocated in their locked cells Monday night, urged other prisoners to take a chance, but after Deputy Warden J. C. Woodard talked to the men they quieted down.

The general spirit of unrest continued, however, and officials feared further trouble.

Guards reported to the guard room late this afternoon that a gang of the roaming convicts had gathered around the gate of Company K, an outfit of quaily and desperate criminals, and threatened to break down the doors if K Company was not let out by 3 p. m.

K COMPANY RELEASED

The cell doors in the Company K range were ordered opened by Deputy Warden Woodward and the convicts permitted to come out into their cage for exercise. They promised to be good and they were urging the other prisoners in the idle house not to get violent. Guards said K Company was about the quietest outfit in the block.

STOCKS EASIER AT THE CLOSE

New York, April 24—The bull move in industrial stocks struck a snag near the close of another 5,000,000-share session today when heavy selling appeared in the motor stocks and other sections of the list. A spectacular buying wave earlier in the day had carried the radio and amusement stocks, with selected utilities, to the highest prices on the year, and in some cases a good part of these new gains were retained.

The motor stocks were under selling pressure in the final period, on rumors of slow movements of cars through the retail market. Industrial Alcohol sold off at its lowest, 5½ points at 87¼. United Aircraft was down 3½ at 81½. National Cash Register broke through to a new low at 57. Gillette Razor flopped more than 4 points to the year's low at 80¼.

The steel stocks were reactionary, with U. S. Steel down nearly 3 points at 189 and Bethlehem sold at 100.

Pays $54 to See Clara Bow, but Fails

When an initial payment of $7.50 for an introduction to Clara Bow grew to a total charge of $54.30, William Chase, employe of the veterans' hospital at Bedford, decided to call the police.

James L. Gookin, 24, a fellow employe, charged with being the high-priced fixer of introductions to the It girl, must tell the judge about it April 30.

Chase, according to the police, talked Gookin into fee for the movie star until Gookin volunteered to "work a knockdown." The sum of $7.50 was followed by payments of $8, $9, $20 and $10. Then Chase balked.

Where Are Cruel Selfishness And Cold-Blooded Indifference Leading People of This Nation?

The prison system of the United States is an unendurable disgrace to a civilized country.

Ours is the only civilized, or semi-civilized country where such conditions exist.

Our jails are "black holes of Calcutta," reproduced repeatedly all over the country in state and federal prisons.

There are three and four times as many convicts in these prisons as the prisons are built to hold.

The prisoners sleep six and eight in a cell; and the crowning infamy of our system is that young, inexperienced prisoners are crowded in with hardened criminals, to learn all that such contact will teach them and to be graduated in crime.

The poor, blind prohibitionists, in their folly and fanaticism, have sent thousands of comparatively innocent people to jail for some trifling offence against the unreasonable provisions of outrageous prohibition legislation.

And there these prisoners, unconfirmed in crime, are crowded into cells and made to associate with criminals until they, too, in their vicious association, and in their resentment against cruel laws and unjust government, become criminal menaces to society or communistic disturbers against a hated social system.

And not only are our jails so overcrowded, and helpless convicts so packed into cells, but more and more citizens are constantly being sent to jail, and the nation and the various states are hurrying the completion of MORE prisons and LARGER prisons to hold the continually increasing number of prisoners, of all ages and conditions and of varying degrees of guilt or innocence, who are being herded into prison.

In the meantime, other nations with better social systems are decreasing their jail population and abandoning prisons which are no longer used or needed.

Why are convicts decreasing in other countries while in our country the number of convicts is increasing at the rate of from 10 to 20 per cent every year?

IN THE FIRST PLACE, all sorts of people are thrown into jail for all sorts of offences, great and small; sometimes for trivial offences, sometimes for offences which should properly be negligible.

A few weeks ago a woman was sent to the state's prison in New York for life for stealing a coat.

Yesterday in St. Louis two men were sent to prison for five years for making themselves an alcoholic beverage.

Today every law-maker is a Draco and every judge a Rhadamanthus.

And every day more laws are being passed, making more mere misdemeanors criminal offences, and imposing jail penalties for every trifling infraction of every oppressive statute.

IN THE SECOND PLACE, everything is being done to PUNISH crimes and misdemeanors and even innocent errors, and nothing is being done to PREVENT such errors and evils.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," says the old adage. And surely an ounce of prevention is worth a thousand pounds of penalties which do NOT cure.

Yet, no program of prevention is proposed; but, instead, more offences are created and more penalties are added every day until our jails are overflowing, and miserable convicts revolt against intolerable conditions or are burned to death by hundreds as a hecatomb to the injustice of our legal system, the incapacity of our law-makers, and the callous indifference of our people.

All the atrocities of the Spanish Inquisition combined into one hideous auto-da-fe would not equal the shameful horror of the burning at the stake by incapacity and brutality of three hundred and seventeen helpless fellow men who after all had offended against our social organization LESS than it had offended against THEM.

While these unfortunates were writhing and roasting in their iron cells, keepers and trusties stood by jingling their keys, and refusing to release them, fearing the judgment of men and forgetting the judgment of God.

There is something other to be done in the present deplorable criminal and penal situations than merely to make MORE JAILS.

We have got to make LESS CONVICTS.

We have got to create a social system which will make MORE GOOD CITIZENS AND FEWER CRIMINALS.

And then we have got to end the mistaken legislation which sends people who are not accustomed lawbreakers to colleges of crime where by evil association and wicked influence, and by reason of rank and rankling injustice, they become hardened and defiant criminals.

Furthermore, we have got to send fewer shallow demagogues to Congress to pass wholesale penal legislation simply because they have not the conscience nor the competence to devise effective REMEDIAL legislation.

Finally, we have got to free honest and conscientious legislators from the dire influence of organized bigotry, stupidity and hypocrisy, continually crying for more victims to be sacrificed on the altars of narrow prejudice and visionary, if not vicious, purpose.

How can this nation hope to hold its place as the leader of world progress in the face of the futility of our social legislation and the crass dullness and selfishness of our social organization?

It is time for the brains of the nation and the heart of the nation and the humanity and true christianity of the nation to take control of matters social and political, and make of our social system something more than a breeding pen for convicts or Communists.

Otherwise our fat and fatuous ruling classes, who apparently do not care what happens as long as it does not happen to them, will go the way of the Russian autocracy and wake up one fine morning to find that some thing CAN happen to THEM.

COMRADES' BLOOD FAILS TO SAVE VICTIM

Wife and Mother Led Away From Bedside as He Lapses Into Unconsciousness

Victim of a gunman's bullets, Patrolman Franklin B. Dwyer died at 2:51 p. m. today.

As the dark curtain descended upon one of the most tragic scenes ever enacted at City Hospital, the greatest man hunt in the history of the Boston police department was in progress for his assailant, now his slayer.

A Dorchester man suspected as the burglar who shot Dwyer in a revolver duel in Spaulding's drug store, Dorchester, early yesterday, was sought as the murderer. He has been missing since the shooting.

Police know him as a seller of drugs and a dangerous character, although not an addict himself. His home is not far from the scene of the crime.

CALLED FOR BABY

The young Dorchester "cop" who stepped off his beat to perform a duty that cost him his life, passed away while in a coma into which he lapsed about noon. Since midnight there had been no hope for his recovery.

While still semi-conscious he called for his six-weeks-old baby son, Paul, one of three children left fatherless by his murder.

Before his senses left him, Rev. E. J. Carpenter, the hospital chaplain, administered the last rites of the faith Dwyer embraced with marriage five years ago.

His wife, who collapsed last evening and remained at the hospital all night, spent practically the entire day at his bedside. With the officer's mother she left about an hour before the end when doctors informed her that her husband would not again regain consciousness.

WIFE WAS HYSTERICAL

She became hysterical several times during the day, raving to see his baby and Fr. Carpenter confronted her and advised her to leave.

Before doctors told her her husband could not possibly live, she said:

"I realize that he may die, and that if he lives he will never walk again, but if only he will live I will devote my life to waiting on him hand and foot, and try to bring happiness to his life again."

Two brothers of the officer remained after the wife and mother had gone. Many of the dying man's comrades on the force and Mayoral Brennan visited the room one at a time and stood, hats in hand and mute in sorrow, for a last glimpse of a fearless cop.

BROTHERS LED AWAY

Just before the end, the two brothers were led from the room and only Dr. Louis Hathaway and two nurses were present.

The patrolman was paralyzed from the waist down by the bullet that tore through his chest and lodged close to his spine. During the night William L. Dwyer of Holbrook, one of the brothers, gave more than a pint of blood in a second transfusion, to no avail.

Officer Paul Crowley, son of Supt. Michael H. Crowley, had undergone a blood test and was prepared to give his blood, too, but surgeons said Dwyer was too weak to survive a third transfusion.

VETERAN OF WORLD WAR

Through the day his pulse was extremely faint and sub-pectoral injections of salt and glucose to stimulate heart action were administered. One was given about 20 minutes before death.

The slain patrolman was 28 and an overseas veteran of the World War. His family resides at 80 Granger st., Dorchester. His children, besides the infant, are Marion, 4, and Franklin, Jr., 16-months. He had been on the force only two years, the last year at Division 11, Fields Corner.

His murder was the second in the ranks of the Boston police department within the year. Special Officer James J. Troy of the Ath-

MEARS SEEKS TO SHATTER GRAF'S ROUND-THE-WORLD RECORD

AVIATOR OFF FOR COAST TESTS

June Set for Start of Attempt to Cut Zeppelin's 21-Day Mark to 14

By JOE J. O'NEILL
Universal Service

Los Angeles, April 24—Around the World—Faster than the Graf Zeppelin.

That's the ambition and the definite plan of John Henry Mears, of New York, who is due to arrive late tomorrow to begin tests of the monoplane in which he hopes to accomplish his record globe-girdling. He left New York yesterday.

Record-breaking is nothing new to Mears. He holds an established mark from Croydon, Eng., to College Park, Md., in the world-hitting mark of 23 days, 15 hours, 55 minutes. This stood as the fastest circumnavigation journey until last summer, when the Graf Zeppelin cut it to 21 days, 7 hours, 31 minutes.

Fourteen days is only twenty-four of the big German dirigible's record-making time, so the record Mears will endeavor to beat this time.

The Graf Zeppelin will have excellent service in the reports of Mears' progress, a radio station of national broadcasting chain to broadcast Mears' every step. They promised excellent service, as well as that of the Graf.

Mears Tells of Plans for Attempt at Record

By JOHN HENRY MEARS
Holder of Two Speed Records for Circumnavigating the Globe

New York, April 24—I am going to navigate the round-the-world record for America.

My present plan calls for a start from New York about June 1. I don't know exactly how long it will be before I am back, but there is one thing you can be certain of: I'll beat the Graf Zeppelin record or—well, never mind what.

The itinerary I've laid out totals a little over 19,000 miles. Here is the route, subject of course to change as necessity may compel:

New York to Newfoundland; flying time, 3 hours. Newfoundland to Valentia Island, off the coast of Ireland, flying time 15 hours; then to Southampton, 3 hours; Berlin, 5 hours; Moscow, 8 hours; Novo-Sibirsk, (Siberia), 16 hours; Irbit, (Siberia), 13 hours; Khabarovsk (Siberia), 12 hours; Petropavlovsk (Kamchatka), 15 hours; across the Pacific ocean, to Seward (Alaska), 9 hours; Seattle, 11 hours; New York, 18 hours.

This will be the first flight for anyone over these routes. Then, too, we are going to try to be the first to make the entire round flight straight, flying at dawn and reaching Ireland by night.

I have definitely selected my pilot. I am negotiating with two men, both of whom are world famous for their achievements in the air.

Propeller Cuts Off Arm of Navy Flier

Norfolk, Va., April 24 (AP)—A northeast gale swept Ensign Warren Burke of the U. S. S. Saratoga into the whirling propeller of a plane aboard ship and the officer today was without his left arm.

Burke, whose home is in San Francisco, was preparing to take off in a flight of 50 planes in practice for the aircraft carrier's next port here.

BETTY COMPSON MAY RELENT

Hollywood, April 24—(INS)—Efforts of great romance between Betty Compson, beautiful blonde of the movies who played a star role in some back and her husband, James Cruze, would famous motion picture director, is not entirely hopeless, it was learned today.

Friends have planned to effect an other reconciliation.

Things are never dull when the Cruzes are around. They separated once before when Betty, slapped over the head by ex-husband's fiery temper, left Hall the Gang. Another separation came on Flintridge, 20 miles from Hollywood.

There is no other man and there is no other woman in the lives of the two film celebrities, both have admitted since Betty, in a huff, filed suit for divorce Saturday, charging Cruze with too many Sunday parties.

Flying of Mrs. Lindy Has Ambassador Morrow Uneasy

Newark, N. J., April 24 (AP)—Dwight W. Morrow was telephoning to Mrs. Morrow at Englewood from Washington. He asked how she was and the children and Dwight Jr., and then:

"How is Anne after that terrible flight?"

Mr. Morrow gave the colloquial question emphasis in a campaign address. Col. Lindbergh's fatherin-law is running for the Republican nomination for Senator.

GOODWIN DRAWS HOT ANSWER

A second clash between Frank A. Goodwin, chairman of the Boston Finance Commission, and Richard P. Lane, chairman of the Boston School House Department, occurred today at a continued hearing before the legislative committee on municipal finance.

Goodwin charged that the orgy of spending on the part of the school committee reached its peak in 1923, when Lane was chairman of the board.

Lane replied hotly.

"I don't quite like the idea of accusing me of being responsible for all the extravagances of the school committee. I think it was bad form to single my name out. The trouble today is a lot of people are looking for publicity who are dabbling in things they don't know anything about."

"All the finance commission is looking out for is that all expenditures are honestly made," said Goodwin.

In reply to Lane he disclaimed any intention of any attack on any member of the school committee. He said he meant that money has been spent extravagantly.

Mrs. Elizabeth Pigeon, a member of the school committee, resented Goodwin's criticism of Lane.

"I think Lane is one of the ablest men we have ever had," she stated.

Convicts Plead to New Indictments

Three "lifers" from State prison and one youth serving 15 years at Concord were brought into Middlesex superior criminal court today and pleaded guilty to a long list of indictments.

The indictments, charging larceny, robbery and assault, were placed on file, with the understanding that if the men ever got free and did not behave themselves they would be prosecuted on the old charges.

The men were James Threadgill, serving a life sentence for the murder of Patrolman James J. Troy in Boston, Paul Smith, serving a life term for the murder of a Saugus storekeeper, Earl R. Baker, serving life for the same murder as Smith, his chum, co-defendant with Smith in some of his crimes, and George A. Lee.

TARIFF PARLEY IN WHITE HOUSE

Washington, April 24 (AP)—Congressional Republican leaders dined at a breakfast conference with President Hoover today to have the House first consider the conference report on the tariff bill.

The report will be ready by next Tuesday, but will not be taken up in the House until a week from today. The White House conference was called at the request of the House and Senate leaders.

The only purpose was to discuss the procedure on the tariff bill, it was said later at the White House.

The sections to be reported in disagreement and voted first upon in the House embody rates on sugar, cement, lumber, shingles and silver, and the Senate provisions for an export debenture, a legislative instead of an executive flexible tariff, and a complete reorganization of the tariff commission within 90 days from enactment of the bill.

LOBBY PROBERS SCORE LETTER TO JUSTICE

Curran, on Grill Again, Defends Phillips for Writing on Dry Law to Stone

Washington, April 24 (AP)—Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, told the Senate lobby committee today that letters written by Thomas W. Phillips, candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania to members of the United States Supreme Court did not constitute lobbying in the least sense of the word.

The letters, read into the record yesterday, were sent to Justice Stone and the late Justice Sanford last year. They consisted largely of an attack on prohibition.

Phillips is a director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

ROBINSON WRATHY

Senator Robinson, Republican, Indiana, who yesterday charged the association with "lobbying directly with the United States Supreme Court," said today the action was "indefensible" and "reprehensible."

"Just because a man is a judge," Curran retorted, "you can't put him under a glass case like a bunch of asparagus."

Curran said Phillips merely wrote friendly letters to Stone and Sanford and there was no thought of lobbying.

"ASK JUSTICE STONE."

Robinson said he was surprised that Phillips had not been haled into the Supreme Court on charge of contempt of court.

"Why don't you ask Justice Stone about that?" Curran inquired. "He showed no resentment."

Questioned by Robinson, Curran said he thought Senator Grundy, Republican, Pennsylvania, who is running for reelection, had been asked by the association to give his stand on prohibition.

"I think that was done, but I am not sure," he said. "I don't think anyone knows his position."

LETTER FROM WALSH

Robinson read a letter written by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, in 1928, asking that F. G. R. Gordon of Haverhill, Mass., be assigned to work for his reelection to the Senate.

The letter said Gordon had "served Western Massachusetts two years ago in the interest of my election to the Senate."

Curran testified that Gordon had been assigned to Walsh's 1928 campaign.

A letter Curran sent Walsh said the association would pay Gordon's expenses. He did not recall how much was spent.

Hold Nine in Drive on Big Rum Ring

Newark, N. J., April 24 (AP)—Nine prominent New Jersey business men today were under charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law by diverting alcohol for illegal purposes. Warrants also were in the hands of U. S. marshals for 56 other persons, all of whom were indicted in Buffalo on March 28.

The indictments which named 18 chemical companies were returned after an investigation of a ring alleged to have diverted alcohol to bootleggers.

LAYS DRINKING BY BOYS, GIRLS TO DRY LAW

Roper, Noted Princeton Coach, Says State Control Is the Liquor Evil Solution

Washington, April 24—Declaring that prohibition has produced a reign of "vicious drinking" in American universities and high schools, William W. Roper, noted Princeton football coach, today before the House judiciary committee staunchly advocated state regulation of the liquor traffic.

Roper cited facts and figures to show that student drinking has become "the thing" among girls as well as boys. After he was heard Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the Ontario Liquor Control Board, told the House committee that government sale of liquor had proved a complete success in Canada.

He appeared at the request of the com mittee.

"Years ago when girls were invited to a dance, no one drank in their presence or offered them a drink. Now girls drink with the boys," said Roper.

"Today it is an alarming fact that drinking has increased in high schools. Twenty-one used to be the deadline. Now boys of 18 to 20 are spelled for drinking.

FEARS FOR HIS SON

"I am making no indictment of youth. I am strong for them. I don't say there is more drinking, but it is a worse kind.

"Young men think it is the thing to do, to drink. Unless a boy drinks he is not in the swim. It's the smart thing to do. The same thing is true of a girl.

"The government is making no real effort to enforce prohibition. I hesitate to send my boy to college because I know he is going to face temptations I did not face. The same is true of girls."

"You will never enforce prohibition by policemen," he continued. "You must have a real feeling for it before you will get it."

DRINK POISON NOW

He said he was opposed to young people drinking under any system and he repeated that there may not be more drinking in colleges now but it is more vicious drinking.

"They are drinking poison today where they drank something before which did not hurt them," said Roper. "Nowadays when they drink they are supposed to drink themselves insensible."

Roper said, as president of the Football Coaches Association, he has visited colleges all over the country, and that this was his opinion.

Roper said he supported prohibition for five years, having backed Gen. Smedley Butler when he was at Philadelphia.

"I'm not running down young people," Roper said. "As far as intelligence and brains go, the young man of today is the equal of those of any day."

Betrothal of Miss Ogden Announced

The engagement of Miss Ellen Ogden to Dr. F. William Marlow, Jr., formerly of Syracuse, N. Y., was announced at a family dinner by the girl's parents, Col. and Mrs. Hugh Ogden of Brookline.

A graduate of Beaver Country Day school, Miss Ogden has studied at the National Cathedral school in Washington, D. C., and at the New England Conservatory of Music. She is a Chilton Club member. Dr. Marlow graduated from Hamilton College and the Harvard Medical School and is now practising in Brookline.

'PACT MUST FIX U. S. PARITY,' JOHNSON

California Senator Has Six Pointed Questions That He Plans to Ask Experts

Washington, April 24 (AP)—Careful examination of the London naval treaty was demanded today by Senator Johnson of California, ranking Republican on the foreign relations committee and one of the key men in the approaching Senate debate.

Withholding judgment on the pact, Senator Johnson outlined six points on which he said he would ask that the agreement square before he approves it.

He indicated he would wait to listen to the proposed hearings on the pact.

"I am studying the treaty," he said today in a statement, "and am having it studied to ascertain whether:

"First, under it our navy is adequate for our national defense and protection of our commerce.

"Second, whether under it, there is a limitation among the nations party to it of navy building.

"Third, whether there is a reduction in our naval armament and that of other nations.

"Fourth, whether there is any real economy or saving to our people under it.

"Fifth, whether, as promised, our navy is granted parity with that of Great Britain.

"Sixth, whether the treaty makes our future contingent wholly upon another nation's actions; and if so, whether this makes for our future tranquility and security or the reverse.

"These are some of the queries occurring from a very casual reading of the treaty. I take it most of us in the Senate, like myself, are desirous of ascertaining everything that may be learned, and then determining the course that may be best for the nation's future."

Interesting news from Russia. Stalin, boss of Bolshevism, celebrates the new commercial treaty with Britain by ordering nine British automobiles, costing from $13,000 to $15,000 each.

In America, only Paul Block, distinguished publisher, feels that he can afford nine Rolls Royces, and with him it is business. He uses them to take important advertisers wherever they are going.

When Stalin and other Russians feel that a $15,000 car is necessary, that's a sign bigger than a man's hand. It means that somebody is beginning to enjoy wealth, and that means nothing good for communism.

MUSSOLINI'S DAUGHTER, EDDA, IS WEDDED TO COUNT CIANO

LOW GOWN OF BRIDE MODEL OF MODESTY

Brilliant Assembly Sees Simple Ceremony in Duce's Parish Church

Rome, April 24 (AP)—Benito Mussolini, premier and dictator of Italy, today gave his daughter, Edda, in marriage to Count Galeazzo Ciano, secretary of the Italian embassy at the Holy See and son of the Italian minister of communications.

The Church of St. Joseph, which is Il Duce's parish church, was crowded with dignitaries. It was decorated with beautiful tapestries from the Capitoline palaces and with palms and flowers.

The bride and groom proceeded to the altar to the music of Enrico Rossi's wedding march, played by the organ and an instrumental quartet. They knelt before the altar and received the initial blessing of Msgr. Giovenale Pisacucy, the parish rector.

The rector sounded one of Il Duce's favorite themes when he told the couple that the church believes all marriages should be fruitful of children.

After he had read the brief ceremony uniting them in marriage a low mass was said and the nuptial contract signed in accordance with the terms of the Lateran treaty, which gives the ecclesiastical marriage civil effect.

Premier Mussolini, relaxing the stern demeanor for which he is famed the world over, smiled affectionately at his radiant daughter during the services.

He was the first to shower her with kisses and her husband with congratulations when the ceremony was concluded.

Witnesses for the bride were the Duce's brother, Arnaldo Mussolini, and Prince Don Giovanni Torlonia, for the groom Dino Grandi, minister of foreign affairs, and Count Pignatelli, Italian ambassador to the Holy See.

NO OSTENTATION.

The brilliant assembly crowded to the aisle as the couple and parents walked from the church. The bride and groom drove to St. Peter's, where they worshipped at the tomb of St. Peter, before beginning their honeymoon, details of which here been kept secret.

Premier Mussolini, for the first time since the exchange of ratifications of the Lateran treaty last summer, will foot within Vatican City today, going to St. Peter's with the bride and groom.

It was said that in view of the Pope's personal gift to Edda and Premier Mussolini's reception at St. Peter's the Duce's long expected visit to the Pope may soon become a reality.

The wedding attendant ceremonies were without show or ostentation in keeping with Premier Mussolini's policy of holding his private life and that of his family as much in the background as possible.

Guests included U. S. Ambassador John W. Garrett, Mrs. Garrett, other ambassadors and ministers in the Duce's Cabinet and Fascist leaders.

MANY BRIDAL GIFTS

Despite discouragement by Premier Mussolini, there were many gifts. Pope Pius sent a solid gold rosary and with it his benediction. The Fascist party sent a brooch, the Senate a Murano lace veil, and the Chamber of Deputies a tea service. Other presents were from the staff of Arnaldo Mussolini's paper, Popolo d'Italia, and from provincial authorities of Forli, Lucca and Leghorn.

The bride's white satin gown was a model of modesty for young Italian womenhood. It was cut high, and hung low about her ankles. She wore long white gloves and carried a big bunch of white roses.

RUDY VALLEE IS REBUKED BY MAINE BOYS

Radio Crooner Reminded He Has Distorted Song of Sacred Memory

Orono, Me., April 24—To Rudy Vallee, radio crooner and orchestra leader, the University of Maine today administered a gentle rebuke for his distortion and improvisations in the "Stein Song."

A student committee of five appointed by the faculty when Vallee and other radio performers improvised "How Dry I Am" lines to the college song points out that Vallee, himself a former University of Maine student, should be the first to realize the sacred traditions of the number.

"The Stein Song has tremendously greater significance to alumni and undergraduates than most of the millions singing it realize," the committee stated.

WRITTEN BY COLCORD.

"The Stein Song, as it is now sung and played by University of Maine men and women, was adapted from the March, "Opie," composed by Bandmaster Fenstad of the United States Army, and arranged by Director A. W. Sprague of the class of '06, present head of the department of music at the university. Lincoln Colcord of the class of 1904, and at present a prominent author of sea stories, wrote the words of the song.

"Rudy Vallee, who is largely responsible for the widespread popularity of the Stein Song, first sang it as a freshman at the University of Maine song at the same time, with the rest of the Maine boys, he baited his head in reverence and swung Vallee to his Alma Mater.

SONG OF SACRED MEMORIES

"Maine students have constantly held the song as sacred, with the bonds made stronger by the sacrifices of those students who played it as members of the University of Maine band of the 103d Infantry of the 26th Division.

"It is not a matter of general knowledge that when the 2nd Maine Infantry, M. N. G., went to the Mexican border in 1916 its band was composed almost entirely of University of Maine students. In 1917 when the second Maine Infantry was composed almost entirely of the 26th Division, its band was Maine students. The Stein song figured prominently in the programs of the 103rd Infantry in France."

The song was played at Belleau Wood where Maine students as stretcher bearers laid down their lives, the statement points out.

BREMEN IN FOG HITS TANKER

London, April 24—The North German Lloyd liner Bremen, until a few weeks ago the speed queen of the Atlantic, was in collision today with the tanker British Grenadier off Dungeness in the English channel.

The tanker was badly damaged, but there was no loss of life on either ship.

According to Mrs. Robinson of Annan, Scotland, who, with two children and two other women, was a passenger on the tanker, was seriously injured. She was brought ashore in a motor boat.

After the collision, the Bremen's passengers lined the deck and waited to see the tanker, but she had disappeared in the fog.

After a delay of about four hours, the Bremen proceeded toward Southampton with only slight damage, a few scratches and a slight dent in her starboard bow. She wirelessed that she could not reach Southampton till 5 p. m. (10 p. m. Boston time).

She had been due originally in Southampton at noon (London time) from Bremen to take on passengers bound for America.

The tanker in addition to damage on her port side, lost much of her cargo, the sea over a wide area being covered with crude oil. The tanker late this afternoon anchored in the Deal Roads. A big hole extended from the top of her bridge to below the waterline. Large quantities of crude oil were pouring from her tanks.

of troops at the prison, made an inspection of the idle mines, talked with a number of the prisoners and reported later that he considered the situation very good.

J. J. Quinlan of Cleveland, one of the ringleaders of the convicts' resistance campaign, was taken from the cell blocks by guards and placed in another part of the prison.

MAY SUSPEND WARDEN.

As the spirit of unrest continued within the stockade, Governor Cooper's committee resumed its investigation of the fatal fire. At the morgue in Ohio State fair grounds, scores of bodies of victims were being claimed by relatives, and plans were announced to bury the unclaimed identified dead tomorrow.

The action was taken when the prisoners announced they would revolt against Thomas rule.

They charged the warden with "cruelty" and held him responsible in part for the 318 fatalities in the prison fire disaster.

When informed of Gettman's mission Warden Thomas said:

"This appears to be the giving away on the part of the government to the 'red shirt element.' They apparently are taking this step to reconcile the lawless element."

The warden added that should the Governor temporarily suspend him, he would not vacate his living quarters at the penitentiary.

ATTACK OWN EDITOR.

Previously, 100 prisoners quartered in the chapel came out into the prison yard and milled about, shouting and screaming. They attacked George Richmond, a convict editor of the penitentiary paper. He was rescued by guards.

Four demands have been made by the convicts, as follow.

First—That every guard be taken out of the courtyard.

Second—That the life of John Richardson, sentenced to die in the electric chair Friday for murder, be spared.

Third—That the Board of Clemency be removed.

Fourth—"We want tobacco."

Sacks of tobacco were immediately taken to the prisoners.

Richardson has been reprieved for 30 days by Governor Cooper an hour before the demands were received.

TROOPS CALLED BACK

Before the disorders began some of the soldiers at the penitentiary were mobilized. When the prisoners became unruly, however, a hurry call was sent out for headquarters company of the 166th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, which arrived in double quick time.

Two clergymen, well known to the prisoners, went into the White City when the hellish conditions existed. They are Fr. Gowan Meege of Cincinnati, a Catholic priest, and the Rev. T. A. Reed of Columbus, former prison chaplain.

and two outlying cities. State police were furnished with a description of the suspect.

Search was concentrated for the Dorchester man after police informed he wore leather puttees and a jacket like those Dwyer slayer was wearing and had been observed near the scene of a recent break in the district.

TWO SUSPECTS FREED

Harold E. Vosee, paroled convict and another suspect, who was questioned a short time were eliminated. Both were able to furnish unshakable alibis. Vosee, arrested in the South End yesterday because he wore a leather jacket and puttees, will be turned over to the State parole board.

It was disclosed in many inquiries for the first time that the slain officer's right name is Dreyer, although he and one of his brothers have been known as Dwyer for several years. The error of pronunciation became so common that it was easier to accept the name than to continually molding pronunciation. Dreyer, however, at the name appearing on all papers signed by the policeman. The family is of Dutch descent.

30 KILLED IN INDIA 'WAR'

Bombay, April 24 (United Press)—Disorder in India was confronted today with increasingly grave situations, about the scant toll in arms rising to over 30 and serious fighting with troops was reported in widely separated sections of the country.

At Peshawar, important outpost city near the entrance to Khyber Pass, one of many British soldiers was killed and several others wounded when a mob protested arrest of several anti-government agitators.

A Lahore dispatch said the outbreak was suppressed only when Gurkha troops secured a machine gun and rifle fire into the mob, which had held up an armored car, passed through it and burned it. Both occupants of the car were burned to death.

At another point in the Bazaar, a British sergeant on a motorcycle speeded into the rioters, who pulled him off his machine and hacked him to death with an axe. The deputy commissioner and other police were badly wounded and sent to hospital.

DEMAND GROWS FOR INCOME TAX CUT

With each day bringing new adherents, the campaign of the Boston Evening American to aid the low-salaried taxpayer by the elimination or reduction of the State income tax draws an overwhelming chorus of popular favor.

The unequal basis of taxation by the State has aroused a storm of protest difficult to ignore. On all sides is expressed the dissatisfaction with a system under which the family man of small income is assessed at an equal rate with the man of wealth, enjoying luxuries through an income, in many cases unearned.

The request for lowered rates and increased exemptions is practically universal among the indexers of the drive.

TAXES GROW HEAVIER

Some of the comments follow:

Joseph Lee, president of the Playground and Recreation Association of America: "In a discussion of the State income tax, I must say that, not being an expert on the subject, I can speak only in a general way.

"I will say, however, that our taxes seem to be getting heavier all the time. With the passing of the old age pension they will increase even more. And, as is usually the case, it is the middle-class wage earner who gets the worst of it.

"Of course, there are many wage earners whose income is so low that, according to law, they are not taxable. In the question of the State income tax they need not be considered.

TAXED JUST AS MUCH

"But there is that class, whose incomes are very large, and consist, in many cases, of unearned increment. Yet they are taxed on an equal basis with the middle-class wage earner, whose burdens are much greater.

"The situation is just another illustration of the condition pointed out by Prof. Sumner of Yale in his book, 'The Forgotten Man,' which was widely read some few years ago.

"In this book the man in question represents the great middle class. He goes his way struggling and unnoticed, always enduring the greatest portion of life's hardships. The people above and below him in station are better off at all times.

THE FORGOTTEN MAN

"Personally I should like to see this taxation burden lifted or some measure of relief afforded to our own 'Forgotten Man.'"

Harry E. Grages, secretary-business representative, Boston Central Labor Union: "I certainly favor more exemption in taxation for the man earning up to $1000 a year. It's all a man with a family can do to get by and keep out of debt on that amount. To place the burdens of taxation on his shoulders is unjust."

Dr. Albert E. Winship, editor of the Journal of Education: "The Legislature can ill afford to hesitate to furnish such relief to those whose tax must be paid from their wages, rather than from their investments."

PASSENGER AIR TRAVEL MORE POPULAR

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

"The airplane as a means of transportation is beginning to come into its own in the only way in which it can hope to compete with established forms of transportation. This means speed," Harry Copland, manager of the Boston station of Curtiss-Wright Flying Service declared today.

"Since the ingestion of the various passenger air lines in the country people have become accustomed to using planes as a means of getting from one place to another. But the amount of time consumed in getting to and from the airports has made it more or less of a lark to fly.

"The aircraft industry realized this, and set about to find a way to make the planes faster with a slight increase in horsepower, and still within the boundaries of safety as established by rules of the Department of Commerce."

HOW IT WORKS

This improvement is best borne out in the achievement of the Curtiss-Wright base at Boston airport.

A man who had lost an afternoon train wanted to catch the train in Albany. Only an hour and 45 minutes remained before the scheduled clearing time of the train from Albany when Pilot Joe Barber climbed into the front cockpit of a 200 horsepower Cessna monoplane, stowed the passenger in the rear seat and took off.

Copland told the passenger that Albany could be reached in 90 minutes, allowing 15 minutes to get to the station. Barber landed the plane at the airport in Albany three minutes less than the 90 minutes quoted by Copland.

The return trip was made in 55 minutes, Barber bearing out Lindbergh's high altitude flight by flying at 7000 feet and getting a high tail wind.

"Airplanes are getting so fast that a cruising speed of 150 miles an hour is commonplace," stated Copland. "We are rapidly reaching the point when we, as airplane operators, can definitely state the time of arrival, barring bad weather."

Doubles Sailings to Nova Scotia

Gypsum Packet Line Will Make Two Trips Monthly Starting May 25

Two sailings from Boston direct to Windsor, N. S., will be made each month, beginning May 13, by the Gypsum Packet Co., which has four passenger and freight vessels known as the "royal boats."

The vessels are the Gypsum King, Gypsum Empress, Gypsum Queen and Gypsum Prince. The Queen will inaugurate this new schedule, which is a doubling of business from Boston to Nova Scotia.

The second sailing probably will be made May 25, but the exact date will be announced by John G. Hall & Co., of 23 Broad st., Boston and New England agents.

Each of the "royal line" carries a radio operator and has other modern facilities. This is the only company giving direct service from Boston to Windsor. Gypsum for plaster work in Boston is the general cargo.

This doubling of Boston sailings is believed to have been partly influenced by the knowledge that on June 1 to province will be officially and openly "wet." Other Boston lines are planning increased sailings.

Base Into Her Wake

The cub reporter awoke long enough to be responsible for this one:

"Robert E. Peabody, manager of the steamship department of Rogers & Webb, has a hobby worthy of my attention. You have heard of mailmen who go for long hikes on their vacations, but here is a steamship man who goes yachting on his. Soon he will take out of winter quarters his vessel, the Sturdy Beggar, and churn the waves off Marblehead."

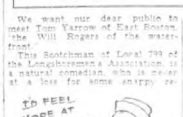
Longshoreman's Gazette

CARL MORRISON, Editor

Vol. 1 No. 13



We want our dear public to meet Tom Yarrow of East Boston, the Will Rogers of the waterfront.

This Scotchman of Local 799 of the Longshoremen's Association is a natural comedian, even if he is at a loss for some snappy remark, even if the joke is on himself.

We have just learned that Tom's friends are urging him to run for City Council because of his oratorical ability, but he is holding out for Congress.

"I'd feel more at home there," he argues.

Tourist Notes

We did some more clipping today and will pass on some bits of information of interest to those who travel by water:

In Italy, free courses in modern languages are offered to hotel waiters. This is to enable the waiter to know when Americans order ham and eggs and not chicken.

Prohibition is injuring tourist business in the Virgin Islands, according to the Chamber of Commerce. Fully 98 per cent of the tourists enter complaints because the islands are dry.

Peru government has abolished passport requirements in a move to encourage tourist business. The Grace Line is inaugurating a 21-day run to Peru and return to New York, and is featuring a maiden trip of the Santa Clara next Friday.

Who Says They're Slow?

Not so long ago certain people said longshoremen of Boston were a trifle slow in unloading, so they agreed to adopt an increased sling load "to bring more business to Boston."

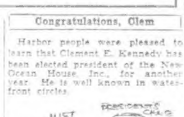
Recently a steamer arrived from Belgium with cement. The ship people figured the 3700 tons and then estimated the unloading time.

"They'll need eight days," was the guess.

The longshoremen said nothing hitched their belts and started. Five days later the ship was unloaded, WITH NO OVERTIME.

Congratulations, Clem

Harbor people were pleased to learn that Clement E. Kennedy has been elected president of the New Ocean House, Inc., for another year. He is well known in waterfront circles.



Other Bostonians elected were Harold G. Cutler, vice-president, and Charles H. Farnsworth, of Brookline, director.

We'll Give Two Bits

A collection is being taken to buy a year's supply of sweet smelling cigarettes for Leon V. Stone, of the Commercial Bulletin. He smokes long black stogies, but was heard to remark that he hoped to be able to buy cigarettes sometime.

Knock the Cargoes Cold

Knockout Pat O'Flaherty, Hub boxer, has been made a member of the International Longshoremen's Assn. Look out, Mr. Carroll, we warn you Pat is tougher than some policemen you have wrestled.

Another Superstition

Yesterday the Gazette told that sailors believed a man was marked for death by drowning if his hat blew overboard. Today we're telling the world that a similar fate was expected for anyone who brought an umbrella on board in the old days.

BISHOP CHEERS ACCUSED SON

New York, April 24—With his case continued until next Tuesday, James Matthew Mason, Jr., 21, son of the Protestant Episcopal bishop of Tennessee, today occupied a cell in the Tombs.

Charged with suspicion of homicide as the result of the death of David Fachler, 31, a retired printer, who was no fellow lodger on a West End avenue rooming house, the young man was taken to the Tombs after his hearing in magistrate's court.

Before that he had been to the Tombs. Mason had his first long talk with his father. The gentle, slightly built, gray-haired bishop said quietly after it was over:

"We did not talk about the case at all. My business is to be his father, not his lawyer."

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

Ban Heathen Gods From the Heavens

Editor Boston American:

Where is the sense of naming this new planet after a heathen god? It was discovered by an American attached to Harvard University. Italians want it named Pluto, god of the underworld, brother of Jupiter. Is it not enough to have the days of the week named after heathen gods as well as the months of the year?

Why carry this again to the heavens? Let us wash the sky of heathen names.

We are all the time talking about reforms, and now it is about time that we rid the heavens, the months and weeks of the calendar from this tribute to the gods of the heathen. Call the planet "Lowell," call it "Percival"; call it "Hoover," but for goodness' sake try to keep up the ban in the heavens against heathen gods.

Praises Co-Eds As Good Influence

Editor Boston American:

Parents should teach their girls that they are the regulating force of the world. Men thank every thing they have to be impressed upon them in an humble way. Woman is the architect of destiny. The United States should look upon her to inculcate high ideals of living. A good girl is capable with her special influence, of leading young men into right.

For this reason, coeducation of the sexes is proving itself a valuable asset in its influence upon the male portion of the school or college. There is no question about this.

If we want to preserve the honor of this nation in its administration, we must put women into places of administration; if for nothing else, let it be for their special influence along good lines.

ELIAS N. NEWCOMB.

Good Church Music Draws Big Crowds

Editor Boston American:

Boston is more than ever awakening to the moral influence of music. When people find it difficult to listen to sermons and addresses in churches, they are held spellbound by good music.

At the First Church, Boston, on a recent Sunday, when Gluck's Orpheus' requiem mass with 6 choristers taking part, when an attended could not get seats not were contented to listen to the music as it came through a door ajar at the entrance of the church.

Boston churches have always emphasized the prominence of good music in divine worship. This is noticeable in Boston to a greater degree for variety of musical selections are now being used more extensively than in the past. Nothing is too hard for the musical genius of Bostonians to tackle and so listen to for inspiration and entertainment.

Boston. S. D. SWEET

Takes Rap At Ignorant Bosses

Editor Boston American:

One of the hardships in life is for a well educated employee to be under an ignorant employer. I know of a young man very well educated with a good mind, daily yielding to the crass ignorance of his employer, who knows very little about his business and thinks that everyone else puts him down as a very well equipped business man.

This employer allows crude English to get into his business letters. You cannot convince him that his English is defective, for there is nobody at home in the top story.

Young women stenographers often are at the mercy of their ignorant employers. They can't say anything. They must grin and bear it. They must have some safety valve like your Letter Column, as no one knows who is doing it, except the editor.

Suggests Discussion On Speed of Autos

Editor Boston American:

Don't you think that it would be interesting to have a discussion on the matter of speed limit for autos? It lies outside of party politics, it concerns everyone, even to the extent of our lives, and I would like to read opinions in your paper about it.

G. H. MANSFIELD.

There Wants Genuine Old Age Pensions

Editor Boston American:

Your desire for genuine old age pensions, untrammeled by any brand of paupers, to protect with kindly care our good citizens who may reach the later years of life without means and whose opportunity to earn has been denied because of the age limits of the "speed and profits" demands of industry, should receive the thoughtful gratitude of thinking citizens.

This editorial is of positive moment, because of the recent peculiar report of our Legislative Committee on Pensions for "old age assistance," House Bill No. 1168, sponsored by Representative Bullock, of Waltham, and others of the pensions committee and called the "Judas Kiss" proposed law. This proposed law contains all the obnoxious pauperdale "hoop-jumping" and nauseating public welfare "investigation" couches as well as the far too old age of 70 years requirement besides other degrading fingerings of "refined" pauperism not mentioned in your discerning editorial.

Organized labor, and I, with other friends of genuine old age pensions, are still demanding the defeat of the Pensions Committee's "old age assistance," which will come before our Legislature for action very soon. In its place we demand real old age pensions as set forth in House Bill No. 104, which will bring Christian American care to our worthy, needy aged, without any degrading touches of pauperism.

All friends of genuine old age pensions should denounce this camouflage election face-saving "old age assistance," even if they are cunningly called "abolitionists" by those who want a smoke-screen smudge to cover their crafty, hypocritical activities, and with which to have our citizens accept their betrayal into poorhouse methods.

Together, let us insist that our Senators and Representatives defeat this obnoxious "assistance" law and enact a genuine old age pensions law, so that Massachusetts can stand proudly in progressive, humanitarian splendor with its Christian, American treatment of its worthy, needy aged.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

A buyer of merchandise from Maine came into my office the other day to talk over conditions of unemployment in the Pine Tree State.

"Why there's no great unemployment in our State. We're careful buyers, careful consumers, all-round careful. We can live on a little and make it go a good way and after a time, we can spread out more when the summer boarders spring up in our towns and villages," he said.

"We seem to have plenty of money because we know generally the value of money. There is some unemployment, but I don't see much of it. We are always saving for the rainy day. It's a hobby with us. We can't seem to get over it. It creeps over us every once in a while. We are squirrels, we always, most of us, have nuts stored away for dull times."

CLUES FAIL IN BAKER DEATH

Washington, April 24 (INS)—The Mary Baker murder mystery was no nearer solution today than it was when the bullet-ridden body of the pretty Navy Department worker was discovered in a culvert near Arlington National Cemetery nearly two weeks ago.

Washington police, Arlington County, Virginia, authorities and Department of Justice agents now admit that only a "lucky break" will clear up the most fiendish murder in the history of the national capital.

Frank Smith and James Vollin, negroes, who admitted stealing Miss Baker's coin purse and scarf from the girl's car, were again grilled. They were finger-printed and the prints will be compared with those found on the car.

Fred Wilson, Government architect who has been questioned several times about his relations with Miss Baker, also is to be grilled again today.

'HOODLUMS OF CHICAGO' LISTS 27 GANGMEN

Chicago, April 24 (AP)—"Who's Hoodlum in Chicago" was published today.

With Alfonse Capone, the scar-faced overlord of gangland, named first, the Chicago crime commission prepared a list of 28 notorious gangsters, gunmen and racketeers who "are constantly in conflict with the law."

Edited by Frank J. Loesch, president of the crime body and a member of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, the list was sent to city, county and federal law enforcement agencies with a reminder that "these men are public enemies and should be treated accordingly."

Leaders of every gangland faction were named. There was George (Bugs) Moran, heir to the northside mob hustled together by Dion O'Banion; "Polack Joe" Saltis, stockyards district chieftain; Frankie Lake and Terry Druggan, the original beer barons of Chicago, and Joe Aiello, last of the once-powerful Aiello West Side gang.

The crime commission's action, it was said, was resultant from the recent report that all of Chicago's gangs had merged under the wing of Capone and that the slogan of the underworld would be "all for Al and Al for all." To this Loesch, veteran crime crusader, answers: "All for law, and law for all."

They were married last October and separated April 1. As Pauline Hansen, winner of the Galveston beauty contest, Mrs. Keeler's portrait was selected for permanent display in the art museum in London.

NEW CHAPLAIN AT CEMETERY

Announcement was made today that Rev. John J. Hogan of St. Benedict's Church, Somerville, has been appointed by Cardinal O'Connell to the specially created post of chaplain of Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

It is understood the post was created because of the large number of out-of-state people who visit the cemetery and the grave of Rev. Patrick J. Power.

Hitherto All Souls' chapel in the cemetery has been under the charge of Rev. Patrick H. Walsh of St. Joseph's Church in the Maplewood section of Malden. This church is the nearest to the cemetery.

CAKES AND PIES HAVE PLACE IN THE DIET

Their Flavorful Goodness Makes Balanced Meals Complete

America has made its pastry popular the world over. And of all desserts, few can be made in more pleasing variety than pies and cakes.

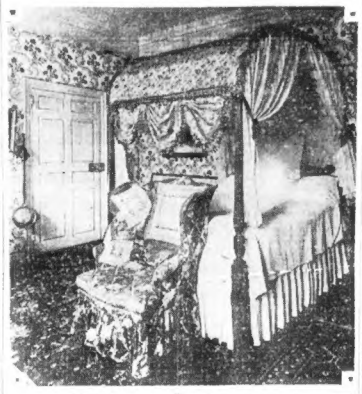
Every normal person should have pastry frequently, because it helps balance the diet. A piece of fruit pie with a tender crust, or a slice of light textured cake is an ideal ending to a meal composed of meat, and vegetables of the leafy as well as the starchy sort.

The ingredients and manufacturing methods employed by modern bakers, great and small, insure the highest quality in these popular American desserts. Their freshness can be depended upon and their price is within reach of all.

A nationally known food chemist recommends a generous vegetable salad followed by a piece of pie, cake or any similar dessert for those dieting, in order to reduce weight. Such a meal ideally satisfies the appetite without increasing weight. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute, Inc.

ANOTHER ANTIQUE

No. 78



The bed shown today is known technically as a Field Bedstead. It is to be seen in the Lindens, the historic old Frances Peabody House in Danvers, Mass.

The original purpose of the four-posters was to carry a canopy and curtains. The tops or "testers" were either straight or curved. The bed pictured has a curved tester in half-circle form, this permits the use of shorter posts, yet the center of the top is the same height as a straight tester, top would be.

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American is publishing photographs of interesting antiques. Owners of genuine antiques, particularly of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association are invited to forward photographs and records in publication. Address the "Antique Editor, 3 Winthrop sq., Boston."

Albanian Consul and Other Leaders Speak at the Statecraft Institute

By NANCY BREWSTER

"There can never be racial understanding unless nations cease to foster propaganda that might is right, that military heroism is the highest form of courage or that war is supreme. George N. Pritti, Albanian consul, told members of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts today.

Concluding the morning session of Statecraft Institute, held at the clubhouse, Pritti argued that patriotism should be built upon the love of country and not upon the hatred of any people.

"If all races today cease teaching their children that might is right, that military heroism is the highest form of courage, that war is the supreme act of the State and that a neighbor is a foreigner to be looked at with suspicion and contempt, and that instead of these teachings pledge our younger generation to the knowledge and understanding of other people, hatred and fear and suspicion will dwindle gradually, there will be racial understanding, there will be cemented and nourished a growing respect and reverence for the best in others," the consul continued.

School Education Is Solution

"We must do this through the schools. They must serve as agencies for intelligent weighings of the best in other peoples. And, in addition to the schools, the press can be an effective instrument by which real understanding between races can be realized."

Pritti was one of several speakers who spoke to the subject, Our Obligation to Our Citizens of Foreign Birth."

Miss Mary L. Guyton, state supervisor of adult alien education, held that as "thinking women of the future, let us feel the pulse and heat of the foreigner that we may direct his best efforts into the best channels of American endeavor with the hope of best citizenship in this great country."

She said that the Commonwealth was spending more than $150,000 a year for the teaching of these adult aliens. More than 30,000 such adult aliens were being reached, she said.

Americans Should Set Example

Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer of the division of immigration in the Department of Education at the State House, pointed out that unnaturalized adult aliens now in this are on the books foreigners can hardly be expected to do the same. She urged that Americans become paragons of obedience that foreign born men and women may fully realize the importance of obedience to the law.

Miss Ethel Johnson, assistant state commissioner of labor and industries, told of effective labor programs, needing more than legislation to put them into action.

"Men and women of high standards, of integrity, of understanding of sympathy with those of foreign birth must be enlisted in the cause. And then there must be public interest that is intelligent, alert, and sympathetic," she concluded.

An address on "Our Industrial Problems, Present and Future," by Maginie W. Alexander, featured the afternoon session, which concluded the Statecraft Institute program.

Mrs. Nelson N. Howard, executive chairman of the Institute, and Mrs. Franklin Hobbs, president of the club, introduced the speakers.

Who Can Resist Fringed Evening Frocks?

By Lelong Sketched in Paris

Lure of Fringe Sketched in Paris

From Paris Bureau, Boston Evening American

Paris, April 24—Fringes are no longer on the fringe of the mode. They have made a triumphant re-entry here, and there is scarcely a collection of importance that does not include a couple of fringed models to mark the all-prevading vein of graceful femininity that characterizes the present mode. Fringed dinner and evening frocks on simple but classical lines are finding much favor just now, and there is an irresistible lure about such frocks if they are not overdone.

Both satin and crepe de chine are used with fringe, especially in black or white. Frequently the fringe is used on an ensemble with pleasing results, especially when the wrap is a short coat or cape. Women are not only accepting the very feminine fashion, but they appear to be downright grateful for the opportunity of again being their very charming and graceful selves, an opportunity that was gladly presented by the couturiers, who were tired of lending their genius to the simple, straight, tunic-like up-and-down frock that seemed in danger of becoming an unbecoming uniform.

TWO SKETCHES are shown today of a fringed model by Lucien Lelong. The dress is a "robe de petit dîner," or a simple dinner dress. It is of black crepe de chine and has a modcrate decolletage and short sleeves. The bodice has an attached band in bolero effect dipping down in front. Trailing circular godets at the back of the skirt balance similar but slightly shorter godets in front, while between these godets the sides of the skirt are covered with deep silk fringes.

THE OTHER SKETCH is of the coat and gives an idea of the baroque effected by the placing of the fringe on the wrap and frock to properly balance. The coat is in reality a sleeveless jacket to which is attached a deep cape with heavy fringes.

IMAGINE getting the biggest musical hit of the week, carefully selected by a Music Jury composed of Eddie Cantor, Florenz Ziegfeld, and Vincent Lopez, and played by one of America's highest priced orchestras—all for 15¢!

And more than that! This new record is shatter-proof. You can sit on it, or drop it, or hit it with a hammer, and still not harm it. It actually improves with use.

And how rich and clear it is! You simply can't tell any difference between this 15¢ record and the 75¢ kind.

HERE'S THE SECRET!

The explanation of this new record's high quality and low price is Durium, the invention of Dr. H. T. Beans, Professor of Chemistry at Columbia University.

Durium enables us to produce a record in 1/100th the time, and at a fraction of the cost of the brittle type.

HITS, HITS . . . ONLY HITS!

Over 20,000 pieces of music are produced each year. But only 50 to 75 are hits. And these will come to you once a week on Durium Hit-of-the-Week Records.

You no longer have to buy a dud on the other side. Hit-of-the-Week Records carry only one piece.

Another unusual feature about these records—they are sold at NEWSSTANDS, in addition to better music stores. This is a cheaper, quicker, more convenient way for you to buy them. As easy as buying a magazine!

This week's record is out today. Broadway calls it one of the biggest hits of the year.

You'll just love this record. Get yours right away.

A BEST IS MADE

Man has heightened many masterpieces in metal and stone to equal those of the 14th Century Renaissance artists. Greatest of all these ageless arts that pushed on to adventure, fashion in Colonial times most magnificent achievement

Industry, as well as art, has its masterpieces. Even in motor fuels there is a best. Everyone today will agree that this "best" must [illegible]. But how many realize that Ethyl is only part of the story? Ethyl improves any gasoline better. But Ethyl does not make all gasolines alike even with Ethyl, performance is largely determined by the gasoline itself. How the gasoline that goes into Colonial Ethyl compares with other motor fuels today may be judged from this one impressive fact: Colonial Ethyl is definitely superior in anti-knock rating to any other Ethyl sold in its territory, regardless of its name, its claims or its manufacturer. Stop at the nearest green-and-yellow pump today, and let Colonial Ethyl prove this to you in action on the road!

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

A Patrolman Hero

Dwyer's Example And Wilson's

Patrolman Franklin Dwyer tried the door of a drugstore on his Dorchester beat early Wednesday morning. It was unlocked. He opened it and entered. He was met with a fusillade of shots.

Dwyer drew his own gun and advanced fearlessly through the darkness toward the hidden burglar. Three more shots split the quiet of night. Dwyer collapsed, mortally wounded. One bullet pierced his chest. Another nearly severed his right hand.

At the hospital, a brother officer gave his blood in the hope of saving his life. Three others volunteered. Dwyer is 28. His young wife sits at his bedside. Their three children, four, sixteen months and six weeks old, are being cared for by kindly neighbors.

The story is epic. Dwyer had been on the force but two years. He met his test early and he met it unflinchingly.

The like of this tragedy may befall any other member of the Boston police force at any moment. There are hundreds of them who will meet it with Dwyer's valor.

These men are entitled to have as the head of their force a man whose sterling efficiency, rugged impartiality and strength of character they can respect.

The revelations of the Boston police scandals have shown that Commissioner Wilson is neither a virile nor effective leader.

Mr. Wilson should resign. If he fails to, Governor Allen should demand his resignation. He thus would honor men of Dwyer's type.

Tyranny of Judges

Can Be Just as Great as Tyranny of Kings

To the country-wide demands for the setting up of stronger safeguards against judicial tyranny the American Society of Newspaper Editors has added its voice.

Through its president this representative journalistic body urges the Congress to pass at once the Vandenberg Bill now pending before the Senate Committee on the Judiciary.

This is the bill introduced by Senator Vandenberg of Michigan which would prohibit a judge sitting in contempt cases in which he is challenged.

Most challenging judges would spurn the advantage of trying contempt cases. But there have been too many flagrant exceptions to this rule to make it safe to leave the public any longer dependent on the sense of fitness of the individual judge.

Not only should no judge sit in a contempt case in which he is the challenged, but Congress should go further and take away the power of any individual judge to punish for contempt any acts save those committed within the presence of a court of law. All other cases of contempt should be tried before a jury.

One of the most astonishing things about popular government in this country is its failure to abolish judicial tyranny.

"The tyranny of judges can be just as great as the tyranny of kings."

It has been in the past and it will be in the future, unless all judges are deprived by law of the despotic power in contempt cases that all have and too many exercise.

Congress owes a duty to the public in this vital business that ought no longer to be shirked. Congress should take away the power of any judge to try a contempt case in which he is the challenged by passing the Vandenberg Bill at the current session.

Then Congress should supplement or amend that legislation by limiting the power of any judge to punish for contempt except where the alleged offense was committed in the presence of a court.

If a man commits murder he is tried by a jury. If a citizen commits contempt outside the presence of a court he is equally entitled to a trial by jury. And Congress should recognize that right by amending the law accordingly—not next year nor the year after, but now.

46 Years of Service

Dr. Charles V. Chapin has for forty-six years served as Superintendent of Health of the city of Providence.

The American Public Health Association, which embraces the United States, Canada, Mexico and Cuba, has awarded Dr. Chapin the Sedgwick medal. It was created last year and is the highest token which the Association can bestow upon a contributor to the physical well being of his fellows.

That the recipient of this honor is a man who for nearly a half century has renounced the emoluments of private practice in order to administer to the health of all the people through a public office is a refreshing sign in these times.

Much Talk, No Action

An Easily Answered Question

A citizen writes in to remind us that for three years the inequalities of the State income tax system, especially as they hit the earners of small incomes, have been under investigation by State Commissioners.

He asks us to inquire of the State House reporters what has been done by the Legislature as a result of all this.

We have asked them.

Their reply is:

"Nothing."

Spurious Antiques

Senator Wagner of New York has introduced in Congress a bill which is aimed to prevent traffic in spurious antiques. An antique is defined by him as an object which is at least 100 years old. Dust off the hair lounge and polish up the brass knocker. Looks like New England may lose the competition of those ancient rarities now produced with marvelous efficiency at South Bend.

STAY ON YOUR OWN SIDE, SAM!

STAY OVER HERE ON OUR OWN SIDE SAM; THIS IS THE LAND OF PEACE; THAT IS THE LAND OF WAR.
EUROPE MORE HEAVILY ARMED THAN EVER
INVITATION TO JOIN THE LEAGUE COURT
LEAGUE COURT
COLUMBIA

America is a Land of Peace, Samuel, and of Plenty; of Prosperity and Contentment; of Happy Homes and Smiling Faces; of Bustling Factories and of Thriving Trade Marts; a LAND OF PEACE, Samuel, a LAND OF PEACE.

Now gaze overseas, Samuel!

Behold the Old World, nations envious of your riches, jealous of your serenity; behold militaristic Europe, bristling with guns and cannon and powder and shot and preparations for warfare, snarling and snapping, and ready at a moment's notice to jump at each other's throats.

Would you change places with any one of them, Samuel? No?

Then heed the voice of Columbia, Samuel, and TEAR UP that League Court invitation to become embroiled in European political machinations!

H. G. Wells Writes

ON "THE SCIENCE OF LIFE"

Our ideas of species have undergone a change, and it is important to realize just how profound that change has been.

We have already spoken of life as a tree. In the central height of the tree represents the time dimension, and the branchings, forks and subdivisions from a common trunk represent the manner along which life has been evolved, diverging and spreading away from some common ancestral form.

H. G. Wells

The horizontal at times between any two twigs represents the difference between two races, the degree to which they have diverged from their common form. Clearly the spectacle which life presents at any particular time, the present, for example, will be represented by a horizontal line through the tree at an appropriate level.

Now what would such a chart really be? It would be through a great number of separate twigs; they would appear on the record in series, and in our ignorance they represent those species that are sharply marked off and distinct such for example as the so-called Mineral Wolf of South America. Some would be close together if they had recently branched from a common stem, and others would be far apart; the former are easily related, the latter distant by related species.

But here in this one section would have through it a vertical line that would appear as an ellipse or a figure of eight or circles just touching each other, and these correspond to the doubtful cases, the border line cases like the case of the tigers that vary, with equal justice, be regarded as several species or as one.

In a word, the twigs in our section would show every sort of relation to each other, every conceivable grade from twigs that are just branching to twigs that lie far apart. And that is how living things present themselves today.

See the importance of this idea from the point of view of the systematist.

In ancient, pre-evolution days it was believed that living things had been created in definite "kinds" according to divine, but nevertheless presumably intelligible plan. It was our business in classifying living things to detect that plan; one started by assuming that species existed and then tried to find out what they were.

Nowadays, on the other hand, we know that living things are a slice through a tree, showing every imaginable degree of consanguinity, and not falling tidily and infallibly into "kinds."

We know that these forms are not constant but changing. And in classifying this assemblage in Time we believe it is in some way of value to describe it in human terms. Therefore we may choose convenient zone phases.

Phylum (class, order, family, genus, species, variety—these are words used by general consent to denote the degree of relatedness between living things. They are not clearly and categorically distinct from each other, but merge to a certain arbitrary distance of what is really a continuous series.

It is like saying of our tree section:

"If two twigs are over an inch apart we will put them in different families; if they are over two inches apart in different orders, if over three inches apart in different classes."

And a species, in particular, is no longer a unit created by God, nor is it a natural unit at all like an atom, or a quantum; it is an arbitrarily defined grouping set up by man for his own convenience.

From time to time many definitions of species have been put forward, tested and rejected. One only is unassailable. It was proposed by Dr. Tate Regan at a recent meeting of the British Association, and it runs:

"A species is a group of animals that has been defined as a species by a competent systematist."

Taken in conjunction with what we have said that definition is perfectly sound.

It brings out two essential points: first that species is an arbitrary convenience, second that an enormous amount of toil on huge numbers of specimens is necessary before a judgment of any value on a question of classification can be reached.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR BAER

A step in the right Marathon Chicago hospital inaugurates necessary novelty. Waiting room for expectant fathers.

If you have ever marathoned up and down the corridor of a hospital you have never known the thrill that comes once in a life time and can occur four times in an administration.

Instead of having hopeful husbands trying doorknobs and nonchalantly through keyholes, the hospital has launched a segregated aisle, where nervous papas can bite their fingernails.

Have you ever lamped a useless husband trying to make himself essential? He waddles up and down the hall muttering sweet nerves to himself, tripping over doctors' feet and winds up by challenging an old lady in a wheel chair to a race.

A splendid idea is a rubber sig. Daddy puts on the elastic toupee, pulls out the hair and allows it to snap back.

We think this rest room solves the unemployment problem. There will be other husbands there waiting to find out whether it's a boy a girl or everything.

Books, newspapers and magazines will help to while away the happy hours. We are glad to discover that the League of Nations finally realizes the importance of husbands.

Heretofore, a husband has only been the head of the house when somebody is to be decapitated.

Now, he is awarded all the dignities of a citizen. When he marches into the hospital all the interns and nurses will line up and give him the presidential salute of 21 razzberries.

It is a corking idea and takes the place of the corner saloon, where papas used to have uncorking ideas.

Rhyming Optimist

By ALICE MICHAELIS

OH ——— that is to deep, too dear
For any song or sigh.
How could I hope my Love would hear
As she passed by?

How could I fancy she would guess
What I could never tell,
Or know the wealth of tenderness
I hid so well?

I went not knocking at her door.
I sent no roses sweet;
But, ah, my heart lay prone before
Her dancing feet!

How could she know my world was dim
Except for where she smiled,
And that I saw all shadows grim
By her beguiled?

I cannot guess how it could be
She knew all I would say,
She read the heart, the soul of me;
It is Love's way!

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Chivalry Is Bad Medicine

We'll never get anywhere, we it coming to you. But I do maintain that this present scrambled state of affairs is Bad Business for women themselves. For it's turning the sex into a cross between a chow and a police dog, with all the worst attributes of both.

For instance, consider the divorce situation. According to the records, practically all divorces are granted to the wives, and those wives are invariably the pitiful victims of man's brutality. But actually, nothing could be further from the truth. In marriage, as in every other form of human behavior, the pups of the species has nothing on the old lady when it comes to cussedness. There are just as many unfaithful, cruel, dishonest, slovenly, extravagant wives as husbands. But chivalry forbids that these matters be mentioned in a divorce court.

Chivalry decrees that a man must always take the blame regardless of the lady's offense. When was probably fun enough in the good old days when papa could kill mama after he'd made his pretty gesture. But what happens now? This happens. Papa not only makes the gesture, but has to go on paying alimony and taking the rap as if he'd really meant it! And increasing numbers of worthless wives are given undisputed custody of helpless children just because papa and society are afraid to call the lady's bluff.

This, though they don't realize it yet, comes back like a boomerang on women themselves. For as long as this idiotic procedure persists, they will continue to be known as the unfair sex—by the very boys who helped them get that way. And be scorned accordingly.

The Ninth Planet

By ARCHIBALD HENDERSON

ALTHOUGH many astronomers have believed in the existence of one or several trans-Neptunian planets, the late Percival Lowell actually predicted the discovery of such a planet in a region of the sky which he plotted with no little accuracy.

So complicated were the calculations, so meager the data, that Lowell was not able to arrive at results of entire exactitude. But the figures he gave in his famous memoir of 1915 have guided the astronomers at Flagstaff, Ariz., ever since Lowell's death, in an unremitting search for the elusive planet.

It must be remembered that Le Verrier predicted the location of Neptune at a certain region of the sky. But there were certain discrepancies in his calculations, with the result that Neptune was actually found to be two minutes off position.

As Lowell himself said, regarding the good luck in Le Verrier's case:

"The explanation would seem to lie in the nearness of Neptune and the near circularity of its orbit. Neptune turns out to have been most complaisant and to have assisted materially to its own detection."

TWENTY-FIVE years ago Lowell began to make his investigations regarding a trans-Neptunian planet.

He was doubtless spurred on by the prophecy of Le Verrier, who, with the insight of genius, foresaw the existence of other major planets beyond Neptune. In 1916 Lowell stated to Professor Philip Fox, now director of the Adler Planetarium at Chicago, that his computations indicated the presence of a body beyond Neptune.

IN his extended memoir, published in 1915, Lowell gave the following data regarding the supposed new planet:

"Mean longitude of epoch around 0 degrees; epoch 22.1 degrees; semi-axis 43.0; mass 1.00; eccentricity, .202; place of opheliclion 203.8 degrees; heliocentric longitude July 0, 1916—61.0 degrees; mean longitude of epoch 295.0 degrees; semi-axis 44.7; mass 1.14; eccentricity .195; place of perihelion 19.6 degrees; heliocentric longitude July 0, 1916—302.8 degrees; the unit of mass being one 50,000th the mass of the sun.

"It indicates for the unknown a mass between Neptune's and the earth's; a visibility of 12-13 magnitude according to albedo, and a disk of more than one second in diameter.

"From the analogy of the other members of the solar family, in which eccentricity and inclination are closely correlated, the inclination to the ecliptic should be about 10 degrees. This renders it more difficult to find."

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

New York, April 24.—With wealth there comes to many middle-aged women in New York dark loneliness that makes one cry a mockery. They husbands are luminous men of large affairs who have reached the Dangerous Age and kicked off fireside slippers for patent leather pumps and a fling in Jazz parlors.

Such wives have no come-back. Too decent to "play around" themselves, they find relief in petty domestic duties. Their children are usually married and have their own interests. Divorce offers no relief. Their security lies in uncomplaining submission.

* * *

Hundreds live in magnificent mansions, filled with trained servants. They have limousines, clothes, charge accounts and may travel to any part of the world. But the one thing they crave above all else is companionship. And that is denied them.

* * *

The cluttered life exacts its quick toll. In a brief period they are changed from joyous, happy women to grasping, sodden-faced elements, silent and self-effacing. They are disheartening evidence of the ancient enslavement of women by convention. An expert can tell them at a glance.

* * *

At almost every matinee of a play presenting a distressing domestic theme they will be found. They go to morning lectures, Sunday afternoon concerts, new art exhibits and other elevating events for gentle folk, but always alone and with the isolated piety of a saint.

* * *

When red scandal and "Love Nest" headlines arrive as they usually do these women are unlikely to defend mates who dishonored them. And what is left of their lives is often devoted to carrying out their sacred obligation of the marriage pact in resigned martyrdom.

* * *

Every night the dancer goes into the swaying amorous pace the Broadway haunts. Kitten-eyed cuties are proving again there is no dunce in the world like an old fool in a paper cap. And in innumerable homes as many anxious and deeply devoted women await steps they will not hear.

* * *

Broadway is Hollywood conscious. A big new popular-priced restaurant is going up in the film capital. Ten plays this winter dealt with Hollywood life and the biggest talkie spot of the year blazing on Broadway heralded "The Hollywood Revue." Warner's newest and biggest Broadway cinema temple is "The Hollywood." A cabaret features "20 Million Hollywood Love Wrecks." A chop suey caravansary is Hollywood named. And there are hat shops, shoe stores, beauty parlors and a gymnasium in Times Square areas which pay Hollywood rents.

I am one of those nit-wits dancing through life with an elfin gayety who laughed, ho, ho, at a chance 15 years ago to buy a corner lot for $650 with small monthly payments in what is now probably 10 and recently for $92,800.

Bootleggers extraordinary now have "contact men" who do not attempt sales. Their job is to pacify the citizens' constabulary with customers. From time to time they call up and inquire about the health of the family and so on.

* * *

If it sounds snooty, it is so intended. Familiarity with bootleggers is American characteristic of its worst. Their job stamps them as criminals. Rascals who sell poison with a smile have a moral crust to call up and inquire the state of your health and that of your family.

* * *

I have talked to many bootleggers and have yet to find one who is not shifty eyed. Their manner is ingratiating, but I notice their record of America's most famous poisoners in a cell in Dayton, O., and he was the politest chesterfield I ever met.

From a news item:

"He has been employed as an interior decorator but resigned recently and has been seen frequently at the croquet matches in Central Park."

Just an old tom-boy.

Words of the Wise Men

The greatest men may ask a foolish question now and then.
—Wolcott.

Habit can never conquer Nature; she is forever unconquered.
—Cicero.

But how can he expect that others should
Build for him, sow for him, and at his call
Love him who for himself will take no heed at all?
—Wordsworth.

The proud will sooner lose than ask their way.
—Churchill.
